

Swagger

My loafers skim the breakfast stairs hurdle mother sister dog, and out the kitchen door where overnight forsythia proclaimed its time with gold alarm and flower swarm confusion.
I am a schooner's figurehead, I cut the ocean rim;
the shuddering seas part for me, and so I go to school.

Gwendolyn Jensen